Before Kisi

- Unwieldy management system operated from an on-premise computer.
- Disruptive access and operations with lost and forgotten keycards.
- IT and office managers engaged in routine tasks.

After Kisi

- Modern access control system that can be managed remotely from a single pane of glass.
- Immaculate user experience where employees unlock doors with their phone they never forget at home.
- Automated on- and off-boarding processes and mobile credentials stimulate productivity.

Before Kisi

- The cumbersome access software interface meant a frustrating experience for admins and users and significant time spent performing the simplest operations.
- No possibilities for updating the outdated access control software.
- Challenging to get relevant data to optimize space utilization.

After Kisi

- User-friendly interface and an access mobile app that is easy and engaging for users and administrators.
- Remote management for administrators and integrations with other software Doctors of BC already use.
- Relevant access insights for making data-based space utilization decisions.
